Important AGM Details Wednesday 14 June 2023

It is very important that those members intending to be at the AGM return the booking form in this newsletter.

Location : Restaurant Les Jonquières, 1005 Bd de la Libération, 83490 Le Muy at 10h30. The restaurant is situated on the ring road next to the vets' surgery. There is additional parking in the side road.

Schedule for the meeting

10h15 Registration

with Coffee and Croissants available for members

10h30 the Chairman opens the meeting followed by the Agenda.

The AGM papers will be distributed 14 days before the meeting, including the Agenda and proxy voting forms for those unable to attend. Nominations are now closed.

11h30 Approximate time of the meeting

Lunch will commence at 12noon for those who have booked.

Please indicate on the reservation form whether you are staying to lunch and send your payment of 32€

All members must complete the attendance registration before entering the meeting. Only members with a paid up subscription can attend. No application for membership will be accepted on the day.

The AGM is an important meeting in the life of our Association

We hope you will be able to attend the AGM. It is an important meeting when the audited accounts are presented and, subject to a vote, accepted.

Questions

Following receipt of the papers, if you have any questions relating to the minutes or reports these should be made in writing and lodged with the Secretary (secretarybaofthevar@gmail.com) not less than 7 days before the AGM. This is to allow time for an appropriate person to answer.

Matters of Interest

The Chairman and any member may raise topics for discussion. New proposals cannot be made at this time unless the subject is on the Agenda. A straw poll might be taken to indicate the views of members present. The Committee will consider the views expressed at a future committee meeting.

Coronation Lunch Review

On a lovely sunny day in May nearly 90 members and guests met for lunch to celebrate the Coronation of King Charles. On arrival we were greeted on the courtyard with an aperitif and canapés and the soothing sounds of a violin superbly played by ex LSO violinist Nigel.

After some enjoyable circulating amongst friends old and new, the group moved to the garden to settle for lunch. At this point a quick game of Heads and Tails (renamed Kings and Queens) was organised by John Oxford and a prize awarded to the winner. A very pleasant lunch then followed, accompanied by wine and more music, during which people were invited to guess the number of teabags and sugar cubes in a coronation mug. Four mugs were circulated and these were subsequently awarded to the four winners.

With lunch complete our attention turned to the superb raffle where prizes included an air fryer, meal vouchers from restaurants, and some superb wines purchased (at a substantial discount with donations from the Boules group) from our good friend Eric at Pure Taste. Following the raffle, we auctioned a stunning cake which had been made by Sylvie Truscot, and all were envious of Gavin, the successful bidder.

Normally these lunches wind down after the raffle, however this one appeared to wind up as Nigel continued playing and many people got up to dance. Eventually, Nigel stopped the music and the last of our revellers departed the venue at a very respectable 4pm.

Early feedback claims that this was amongst the best events ever organised by the BAV so, if you missed it, make sure you get your booking in for the Vendange Lunch in September

Chairman's Letter

Last month I mentioned the serious problem of water shortage and President Macron's plan to address the problem. Apparently most of the water loss, 50%, is through leakages. He has set aside a budget to address the problem. Most of the focus is on the public saving water but in fact as only 20% of water is used by households there will be restrictions on industrial and agricultural use .

As this is the last newsletter before the AGM I want to focus on the volunteers that have helped to keep the association going and to pay tribute to them for the service they have given to Members. Over the last months I have asked Network coordinators to take on a bigger role than arranging their coffee mornings, important as those are, by organising activities and Network events, the latter to be open to all members. Not all coordinators have tried this out yet and it might not be appropriate for the smaller villages. I want to thank Pauline Holloway, John Morgan, Richard Tolaini and John Westlake for their work in organising their popular coffee mornings and Johanna Matthews, Sandie Docherty, David Holmes, Nigel Follett and Birgit Duquesne for also embracing the change so as to provide more events.

Your Committee, all volunteers, has been very active in the association. Philip Davies, who is treasurer and also manages membership, has been instrumental in introducing the Committee to GVO where all our documents are electronically stored and can conveniently be accessed by any Committee member. Peter Holdway, secretary, who has administered bookings and the website, has worked closely with Phillip on this project. Alastair Ross took on Welfare, reports regularly and has spent many hours dealing with cases. Sandie Docherty, who has developed the Publicity role, adds all events and activities on the website in addition to ensuring they are published in the Newsletter, whose layout she designs in tandem with the editor. This is in addition to her network Coordinator's role. Johanna Matthews, Wellbeing secretary, is extremely active, arranging wellbeing activities, events and Seminars as well as organising Network events in her role as a Network coordinator. Pauline Holloway as the Network Organiser and a coordinator visits the coffee mornings to encourage discussion on activities and events for the Network, as well as helping with welfare. Although Tom Wilson, the only one still employed, has limited time, he has responded to enquires generated from the website, added information to Facebook and has been leading a working group developing our personal safety and inclusion policy. Committee members spend many hours on your behalf and their dedication should be recognised. I trust many members will show their appreciation by attending the AGM.

Outside of the Committee there are other dedicated workers, notably our Newsletter editor Shirley Rowson, who, with Sandie, produces a professional quality edition each month. Shirley organises a monthly boules game for her network. John Oxford organises Monday Boules each week with the help of Robert Flanagan, David Berlin, Peter Holdway and Johan Nielsen who organise lunch in the various villages. There are others who lead activities, help out at events and support those responsible for them and I thank them all on your behalf.

In the area of Charitable Giving our last donation of this committee year has been to pay most of the cost of a Portacabin the Croix Rouge in Fréjus urgently required to house materials for those needing help with such everyday items as books and school supplies, toys and various childcare items.

Wellbeing; There will be a wellbeing seminar on Arthritis on 27 September in St Raphael, 18.00 to 20.00.

Networks: At the second Network co-ordinators' meeting, where guidelines for the organisation of coffee mornings, activities and events were updated, coordinators from Fayence, St Maximin, Cotignac and Villecroze outlined several of their planned events. There are two events in June, in addition to the regular coffee mornings. They are the Fayence network' Quiz and lunch by Lac de St Cassien on the D37 (not Tanneron village) Thursday 22nd June, which you might still be able to join. On 27th June a Picnic in the Park is planned in the attractive village of Villecroze, organised by the local network. The picnic will be followed by a tour of the grottes, an intriguing series of dwellings in the rock face adjoining the park. As it was thought that it would be too hot for a rally in July this event by the Cotignac Network has been postponed. For the same reason, and because of holiday plans, there are no new events in July and August but two networks have events planned for September.

Committee-led Events: The Garden Party was a great success, as reported in this newsletter. The first of our Committee-led Events of the new season will be the Vendange lunch on September 2nd.

AGM

The AGM will take place on 14 June at 10.30 at Les Jonquières restaurant, 1005 Bd de la Libération, 83490 Le Muy. The optional lunch will cost 32€ and is detailed below. Please complete the booking form at the back of the Newsletter or on the website if you wish to attend. We hope to see you there.

Classical Treat

To all you classical music fans: St John's Anglican Church in Saint-Raphaël is presenting a very special concert on 16 June at 6pm. The music will be "5 Mystical Songs" by Vaughan Williams and the ever-popular "Requiem" by Fauré – an English/French programme to suit all tastes. The church choir will be led by two of their distinguished visiting musicians, both professionals – Pdraig O'Rourke, baritone, from Dublin and Evabritt Gratte, violinist, from Stockholm. The organ accompaniment will be provided by Pdraig's regular accompanist, Michael Grant. We are so fortunate to be able to benefit from these three talented people, and we do encourage you to come and support them. More details from Shirley Rowson 06 60 71 93 54.

Welfare Notes

With the papers for the AGM, which members will shortly be receiving, will be found a small paper for you to complete with useful names and numbers. It is intended that this is completed by members and posted prominently so that people summoned to help you in an emergency – particularly Police, Fire and Ambulance services – will immediately have access to this key information. The ideal place to put this is on the fridge as this is the first place the emergency services will look.

The name and telephone of your Medicin Traitant (Doctor), your next of kin and any friend or neighbour will be most helpful to the services in an emergency. You can add any other people or information you feel might be useful.

We all hope that such a sheet will not be necessary, but it could make the difference between life and death.

The menu is as follows:

Assiette de charcuterie

ou

Quiche aux legumes et salade

Fish and chips, frites et salade

ou

poulet au curry, riz et legumes

Tarte aux fruits

ou

moelleux chocolate

ou

Coffee

The cost of this event, a three course meal and coffees is 28€.

Selwyn Glick

It is with great sadness that we have learnt of the death on 5th May of Selwyn Glick. He was a founder member of the Var branch attending the inaugural meeting in 1998 and immediately joined the committee with his wife Sheila. He became secretary in 1999 and continued until 2007. He thus attended and produced the agenda and minutes for some eighty meetings of the committee. He also wrote, assembled, printed and posted the first 57 newsletters: an extraordinary achievement.

As a distinguished retired surgeon, he was an invaluable source of advice on welfare matters involving health problems. He personally visited, often regularly, members in need in the wider Draguignan area. His contribution to the success of the British Association in the Var during its formative years was immeasurable. I am pleased to acknowledge the debt I owe to him for his help during my time as Chairman and I was delighted when he was awarded life membership a few years back.

We extend our deepest sympathies to his family on this sad occasion.

Travelling Book Swap

The Travelling Book Swap is returning to a lovely venue for 21st June and 19th July chez Penny &

Grove Balaam, 16, Chemin de la Nate in St Antonin 83510, Landline: 04 94 80 35 17 or portable 06 12 31 69 10. All held in their pretty garden, with some parking at the house, & also good public parking nearby. Loads of books, cds & dvds, everyone is welcome, & balloons will show the way! Tea/coffee/biscuits provided for €1- with a summer party in July. From 10.00-12.00 as usual. Email Mim Kay- mimi4opp@gmail.com for any further details/information.

THE WHODUNIT BOOK CLUB

A NEW BOOK CLUB FOR BAV MEMBERS AND THEIR FRIENDS

We are especially proud to announce the creation of a special WHODUNIT Book Club (WBC) for those who are fond of reading crime stories and subsequent investigations. The club normally meets in a quiet location in Fréjus on the 4th Monday of the month from 10:30-12:00. The club is free, except for the price of books, of course, and our members all take turns leading our lively discussions.

Please contact Paul (metzpaul@orange.fr) if you'd like to join us.

Thursday Lunch Club

Our next lunch will be in the heart of the vines in Saint Antonin duVar at the Chateau Mentone on 29 June. The restaurant La Ferme has a good rating and serves locally produced ingredients. Dining can be inside in the old oil mill or outside. It has a good reputation for service and serves their own wine; it is possible to have a tasting in the shop before choosing your dinner wine. This is a really a great venue. Prices between 35€ and 45€ please book with Michael before the 15 June mwharton57@gmail.com

Wellbeing

The Neighbourhood networks are proving to be attractive now and new younger members are joining in with new ideas - and new friendships are forming. For those members who have not yet ventured along to a coffee morning, it's never too late and you could be missing out on some fun in your vicinity! Friends and relatives are also welcome.

New members

We welcome the following new member to the British association of the Var: James and Stella Reynolds and Christine Pheby from Montauroux.

Committee Corner

Your committee met on May 9th and, as usual, the main topics of discussion were the BAV finances and Welfare. The former will be covered in detail in the AGM papers and the latter is obviously primarily confidential. However, on welfare, it was agreed that a postcard for members detailing Emergency contact details would be of benefit to members.

We discussed the very successful Coronation Garden Party, agreed plans for the Vendange lunch in September and reviewed the success of local Neighbourhood network events. We also discussed how best to follow up with non-members who have attended events.

At the request of a member, we discussed Community Service awards and agreed, in principle, to present several awards on the basis of his recommendations.

We finalised the details of the AGM, formally thanked the retiring committee members, and discussed how best to encourage members to volunteer to join the committee. We also discussed feedback from the recent Network Co-ordinators meeting, and agreed to research whether individual Neighbourhood Networks had individuals who might be prepared to post on Facebook on behalf of the Network.

Finally we discussed the current membership renewal process and the relevant charges and agreed to review this in full at the next meeting. The next committee meeting will be on June 20th, so if you have anything you would like discussed please email secretarybaofthevar@gmail.com

COLLECTION OF USED STAMPS

Thanks to all of you for your support in the collection of the stamps for the training of a guide dog for the blind, which we pass on to our daughter Delyth in the UK. She has recently been with us and returned with over a thousand stamps as shown in the photo, most of which were from Christmas. We were really surprised when we separated the stamps out into French, UK and rest of the world for a better price. We were amazed at the countries where you have friends and family - the list is endless: USA, Holland, Canada, Tunisia, Germany, Cyprus, Malta, Indonesia, Belgium, Luxembourg, Hong Kong, Monaco, Norway, Australia, Japan, Eire, New Zealand, Malaysia, Macedonia and Italia.

The present dog in training is nearly ready to be placed with its blind recipient - as soon as we have that happy news we will let you know. Thank you again for your kind support.

Food waste recycling

Local authorities in France must provide all households with a means of keeping their food waste apart from other rubbish by January 1 next year. That means a bin - either individual or collective - to keep food waste separate from glass, packaging and general waste. It is part of a drive to help the environment by using food waste for fuel or compost instead of burning or burying it at landfill sites. The French government says 10 million tonnes of food is wasted or lost each year, costing €16 billion. Each person in France throws away around 30kg of food per year, according to France's ecological ministry, including 7kg still in its packaging. Almost all food waste could go in collection bins, including meat and fish, as it is used to create methane for France's gas network.

How can I reduce food waste?

- Avoid buying too much: Plan meals a week ahead so you know what you need to purchase and how much of it.
- Look in the fridge and cupboards before you go shopping to avoid buying something twice.

Inheritance tax and succession planning using Assurance Vie.

What are the benefits for you and your family?

We have the answers.

- When you go shopping make a list and stick to it. Resist promotional offers as they encourage you to buy more than you need.
- Keep leftovers refrigerated and stored in transparent containers so it is harder to forget what you still have to consume.
- Be vigilant about expiry dates. Freeze meat and fish that will not be cooked within two days of purchase.
- Know which fruits should be placed in the refrigerator and which can stay on the counter and ripen.
- Collect dry bread or crusts if no one wants them. You can make croutons or breadcrumbs. Bread pudding is also a delicious way to use up leftover bread.

French tax inspections

Checks by tax officials into people's financial affairs resulted in an extra €7.8billion for state coffers in 2020. Maximising tax revenues is now seen as more important than ever, meaning check-ups are increasing. Everyone living in France must make a declaration of their worldwide income, though tax treaties help avoid double taxation. Non-residents with French income, such as from renting out property, must also declare this income. Failure to do so could result in checks - and fines.

Here are eight points to bear in mind to make a contrôle fiscal less likely:

1. Declare all your overseas bank accounts (this is for residents)

Make sure you declare all your overseas bank accounts (and do not merely declare the income from them). Not doing so can incur a €1,500 fine per account, or even more in certain states with no agreement with France on combating fraud. This does not include the major English-speaking states. You must declare 'neo bank' online accounts and accounts for cryptocurrency. Check where such accounts and platforms are based – French accounts should be known to officials, but all foreign ones must be declared by you. Bear in mind that the cross-border sharing of information is common now. If you opened accounts in previous years, it is advisable to own up to them, as tax offices are likely to be more tolerant of genuine mistakes admitted to them than where they discover accounts themselves.

2. Declare any unusual change in income carefully

If your affairs are simple and your income regular, there is no particular reason for a check but unexpected ups and downs from year to year can attract interest. So, ensure you declare any wind falls properly in case of having to explain yourself.

3. Be transparent about rental income

The tax office might also look out for inconsistencies between property ownership and incomes. For example, someone declaring a lot of rental income might be checked to see if they should have been declaring for property wealth tax.

4. Know the limits of gift tax

Financial dealings between family members are also sometimes a red flag. For example, take care in the case of large loans, which could be seen as a disguised gift. All large gifts, outside normal presents, can be taxable under droits de donation. If you lend €5,000 or more in a given year, including in several amounts or to different people, you are expected to declare this loan to the tax office, if the recipient has not done so. If you receive loans of €5,000 or more in a given year, you should also declare.

5. Pension alimentaire only for 'essential' needs

Similarly, watch out for pensions alimentaires – financial support to family members in need, which can allow for a tax break if you declare the support in your tax declaration. Such sums should only be made under this pension alimentaire heading – as opposed to being a potential taxable gift – if they are to help with 'essential' needs. Substantial sums given to a child who is already self-supporting – for example, if he or she has an income equivalent to the minimum wage (Smic) – are likely to be seen by the tax office as breaking this rule.

6. Attention with nue-propriété within families

Another situation is where parents have made an arrangement to reduce liability to inheritance tax by giving the nue-propriété (residual ownership) of their home to their children while they maintain the usufruit (lifetime use). The children should not live in the home for extended periods unless a full rent is paid, as otherwise it can be seen as a disguised full gift of the home.

7. Make sure your income matches your lifestyle

People whose train de vie – lifestyle – does not seem in keeping with the income they declare might also be targeted. Reportedly, tax officers read the local press to see if people are talking about activities that suggest sources of income they have not declared. They are also allowed to look at social media and sites such as leboncoin and Airbnb, though only for information shared publicly. Online platforms will share details of earnings on them with the tax office if they are above €3,000/year. Most letting is declarable income, as is buying (or making) and selling, though in most cases not if selling your own used goods.

8. Evaluate your financial and real estate assets

If you are an IFI wealth taxpayer, take care to give a 'reasonable' market valuation of your holdings. Increasingly, tax offices are making checks, especially when properties are passed on or sold, to see if they have been valued realistically. If necessary, it might be better to admit to a 'mistake' in the past and pay extra tax.

Timbre fiscal:

Everything you need to know about France's finance stamps

In France, you can buy a very particular kind of stamp to cover the cost of a titre de séjour, or French passport, to pay your taxes, get an ID card if you're eligible, or pay for your driving licence. Basically a timbre fiscale is a way of paying a fee to the government, and some online processes – such as the tax offices – now have the more modern method of a bank transfer or card payment. However there are plenty of official tasks that still demand a timbre fiscale. In the pre-internet days, this was a way of sending money safely and securely to the government and involved an actual physical stamp – you bought stamps to the value of the money you owed, stuck them onto a card and posted them to government office. They could be used for anything from paying your taxes to fees for administrative processes like getting a new passport or residency card.

These days the stamps are digital. You will receive, instead, either a pdf document with a QR code that can be scanned from a phone or tablet, or an SMS with a unique 16-digit figure. Both will be accepted by the agency you are dealing with. Once you have the code you need, you can add this to any online process that requires timbre fiscaux (the plural) and that will complete your dossier. You can buy them from a properly equipped tabac, at your nearest trésorerie, or online. Paper stamps remain available in France's overseas départements, but have been gradually phased out in mainland France.
